

SYMPOSIUM

organised by

Law of the Sea and Maritime Law Institute of the University of Hamburg,
Max-Planck-Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law, Heidelberg,
Federal Maritime and Hydrographic Agency, Hamburg / Rostock,

in co-operation with

Max-Planck-Research School for Maritime Affairs, Hamburg, and International Foundation for the Law of the Sea (Founding Committee)

“INTERFERENCE WITH NAVIGATION: MODERN CHALLENGES”

International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (ITLOS)
Hamburg, Germany
March 15th, 2003

- 09.30-10.00 Registration and Coffee
10.00-10.15 Welcome: H.E. Dolliver M. Nelson, President ITLOS
- Moderator: H.E. Judge Jean-Pierre Cot, ITLOS
10.15-11.00 Maritime security in a multilateral context
(Hartmut Hesse, International Maritime Organization)
- 11.00-11.30 Discussion
- 11.30-12.15 Container and port security: The bilateral perspective
(Ashley Roach, U.S. Department of State)
- 12.15-12.45 Discussion
- 12.45-14.00 Lunch
- Moderator: Rainer Lagoni, University of Hamburg
14.00-14.45 Legal possibilities to protect foreign ships against piracy and terrorism
(H.E. Judge José Louis Jesus, ITLOS)
- 14.45-15.15 Discussion
- 15.15-15.30 Coffee
- 15.30-16.15 The protection of navigation in case of armed conflict
(Wolff Heintschel von Heinegg, University of Frankfurt / Oder)
- 16.15-16.45 Discussion
- 16.45-17.00 Concluding remarks
(H.E. Budislav Vukas, Vice-President ITLOS)
- 17.00-19.00 Buffet

The Symposium has been made possible by a grant from ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, Hamburg, and Edmund Siemers-Stiftung, Hamburg.